

Free Risk Management Review for our Clients

After decades of working with companies of all shapes and sizes, we understand the challenges faced by business owners. We see how easy and essential it is to get caught up in the day-to-day 'doing' and how difficult it can be to take time to focus on the bigger picture.

At McLean Delmo, we see it as part of our responsibility to help our business clients maintain perspective on their business objectives and to provide proactive advice on opportunities or solutions to issues within a client's business.

As such, we would like to offer a Free Risk Management Review as a value added service to our clients. This review will look at all potential risks to your business and – as the business owner – may also cover your personal affairs.

Our Risk Management specialist, Steve Beetham explains, "Our clients find this review process quite revealing. I never know what I will find but invariably we identify items – some very important – which represent real risk to the business and need attention."

How does the Risk Management Review work?

1. We will arrange a meeting with the business owner to talk through a comprehensive list of questions to determine any potential risks to the business.
2. Armed with this information, we can produce a thorough Risk Review Report.
3. This report is presented to the client with no obligation. They are free to read and consider our recommendations for better risk management for their business.

We are confident this external perspective will provide valuable advice and ideas on areas that the business owner may not have even considered nor had a chance to action in the past.

We appreciate that our clients' time is valuable and hope to reward their investment in time with a number of realistic strategies to benefit their business.
